A NEW GENERATION

Since 1983, Annie Morhauser and her team of master glassmakers have been handcrafting exquisite glass tableware, home decor and sculpture with passion and precision. Made entirely by hand in the U.S., it is American Design at its very best. Combining the strength of everyday window glass and the luxury of 24k gold and platinum into stunning pieces that infuse everyday life with beauty and joy.

Accented with genuine precious metals, every piece is hand engraved with the studio signature on the back. It is dishwasher safe and durable enough to last a lifetime. Annieglass pieces easily become cherished heirlooms adding to the long legacy of American Craft that Annieglass has invigorated with new design and technological innovations.

Ava Reinhold, Annie's daughter brings youthful enthusiasm to her new role as sales manager. She has a unique perspective, having grown up with her brother Tay playing with bubble wrap and watching simple raw materials magically become works of art. After college Ava opened and ran an Annieglass company store in Silicon Valley, CA in addition to the factory outlet. Her influence on the delightful new additions to the Butterfly collection brings whimsy to the table.

RECYCLING GLASS

Determined to maintain zero waste goals, Annie locked herself in a room until she figured out how to reuse scrap glass. A design patent is pending for her solution called the Elements Collection.

For decades all our scrap glass was returned to the factory 60 miles away that made the flat glass that we transform into Annieglass.

Once that factory was shut down Annie had to create a new method to use the scrap glass as well as a new collection to continue a zero waste policy of manufacturing Annieglass.

The scraps are heated into a solid block then cut on the water jet into the Elements collection of trays and trivets.

LIGHTING

When Annie opened her own showroom in Atlanta she created a show stopping 3 part chandelier with fellow artisans and lighting experts. It was a throwback to her early days fresh out of art school making prototypes for a San Francisco lighting firm. By illuminating her sensuous sculptures in frosted glass into a chandelier she highlighted the contours. It makes you want to reach out and touch them.

Create your own unique artistic environment with the expanded offering of single pendant lights in the pointed Tulip and curvaceous Anemone shapes.

Any of these chandeliers will add ambience and art to your surroundings. All are frosted glass, 24k gold, LED lighting ready for hardwiring.

Sculpture or serving dish? Your eye decides.

The Shells Collection tiptoes across the line between art and tableware — and earned Annie's place in the Smithsonian American Art Museum (where Tiburon and Coquina are housed in the permanent collection).

These organic, sculptural shapes of frosted glass are trimmed with glimmering precious metal edges, proclaiming Annie's passion for her craft. It is on full display in these artistic expressions of traditional American Craft.

STYLE TIP: While the sculptural Shells are perfect for artful home decor, this collection comes in a full dining set — and is beloved by nature-inspired chefs and, of course, seafood lovers.

OUR PROCESS

Annie's imaginative designs are cut from durable, architectural grade glass.

Edges are ground smooth, making each piece of Annieglass more chip-resistant than fine china or stoneware.

Artisans hand-paint bands of precious metal onto rims of the cut and ground glass, visible brush strokes show the beauty of handcraft.

Each piece of Annieglass is carefully loaded by hand into a kiln for firing, aligned on a handmade ceramic mold which will give the glass its texture and shape.

During firing, glass melts into ceramic molds and precious metals permanently fuse to the glass, rendering each piece unique in shape and dishwasher safe for utmost functionality.

Finally, each piece is individually inspected to ensure quality, before being hand-engraved with the studio signature—a proud designation of Annieglass' authenticity and integrity.
