

Relish

TODAY'S EVERYDAY

— SPRING 2023 —

THERE ARE A FEW THINGS ABOUT RELISH THAT WE THINK YOU SHOULD KNOW.

It might surprise you to know that Relish has a sister company called Cabell's Designs. At Cabell's, we've been creating one of a kind ceramic pieces in our design studio for almost 20 years. It's in this studio in Rome, Georgia where Relish designs are first conceived.

Our team dreams up a dinner plate, bowl, or serving piece then our artists get to work making that dream a reality. Each piece is hand formed in clay, then dried, sanded, kiln fired, glazed and fired again. Sometimes this process is repeated multiple times until we get exactly what we think will make the next beautiful Relish piece.

Once this final sample is complete it is then sent to our trusted manufacturer. Our hand formed sample is used to create a mold. Then the melamine process begins! An organic, 100% BPA free melamine powder is poured into the mold, (using a really impressive machine!) heated until it melts and forms the final piece. But we aren't finished there! After carefully removing the newly formed piece from its mold and allowing it to cool, it still must be sanded by hand and checked for any flaws before it makes its way into a box and to our warehouse.

We think the process is pretty amazing! Because we design and hand build our molds, Relish pieces are one of a kind; making the final product a unique and elevated piece that will look beautiful on any table! AND the durability allows for worry free use. There are less expensive ways of making a melamine product, but for us, cheaper is not better... every step and detail matters to us.

Resilient enough to be used commercially and elegant enough to serve in the dining room!
